the variance of the reports sent through the Japanese embassy and the one provided Wednesday to the American em-bassy in Tokyo. The former stated that the explosion was caused by a flareback quite similar to the one that oc curred on the battleship Georgia July 15, while the latter stated plainly that is was caused by the "explosion of shells,"

The report received at the Japanese embassy indicates that projectiles, and ordnance experts are unable to figure out just how a spark may have gotten through to the charge from the bore of a gun after the projectile had been "rammed." If it had merely been placed and had not yet taken position in the rifles, a spark might easily have passed through, but the report states that the shell was rammed. Two projectiles were thus discharged, it plainly appears.

The question arises as to whether the first report proved not to be correct, or whether the error occurred through transmission from the American embassy. More reliable information might be obtained from a report direct from Commander Dougherty, the naval attache at Tokyo, as he is familiar with ordnance, but no word has yet been received from him, indicating that he is doubtless out of Tokyo at the present time.

The American embassy's report ordnance experts are unable to figur

The American embassy's report Wednesday stated that thirty-one were killed and eleven wounded, and yesterday's report indicates that three of the wounded have since died.
